

SOUTH SUDAN

2017 Regional Refugee Response Plan: Overview

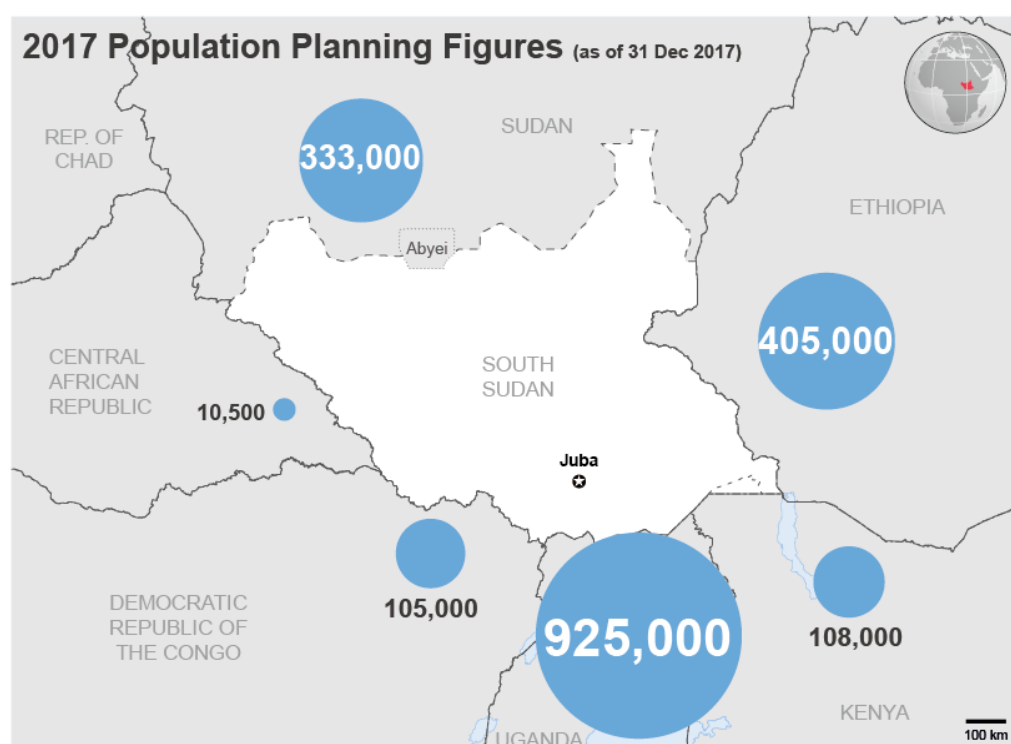

OVERVIEW

The South Sudan Regional Refugee Response Plan (RRRP) 2017 articulates the regional protection and humanitarian needs of an anticipated 1.89 million South Sudanese refugees by 31 December 2017. The conflict in South Sudan has further intensified since July 2016, with the exodus of refugees into neighbouring countries continuing at an alarming rate, generating Africa's largest scale refugee crisis. Despite massive regional needs, the 2016 RRRP was only 38% funded. The shortfall in resources is mounting pressure on reception capacities of hosting states.

The RRRP outlines the inter-agency response strategy and financial requirements of 47 agencies responding across six countries of asylum: Central African Republic, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Ethiopia, Kenya, Sudan and Uganda.

REGIONAL STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES

1. Uphold the quality of asylum for South Sudanese refugees in the region by meeting their lifesaving needs according to applicable minimum standards.
2. Anchor the response within national and regional multi-year protection frameworks, policies, laws, and standards which address legal and physical protection needs of South Sudanese refugees.
3. Enhance biometric registration, documentation and data management in collaboration with host Governments to support implementation of durable solutions strategies.
4. Proactively explore and, where applicable, pursue innovative approaches stemming from participatory assessments with refugees, Governments, humanitarian and development actors, private sector, and civil society, to alleviate the increasing dependency of refugees on aid.

COORDINATION

The number of partners involved in the South Sudan refugee response across the six countries of asylum has grown from 39 in 2015 to 47 in 2017. The Refugee Coordination Model (RCM) remains the main tool to coordinate the humanitarian response in the context of a large refugee influx. UNHCR coordinates the overall response in collaboration with Government counterparts, UN agencies, local and international NGOs, as well as with refugee and local host communities. The Regional Refugee Coordinator (RRC) for the South Sudan situation has responsibility for the coordination of the emergency response and is accountable to all the partners, as well as to the individuals receiving protection and humanitarian assistance.
