CONTEXT

The refugee population is mainly composed of persons from Colombia, El Salvador, Cuba, Nicaragua and Venezuela. During the COVID-19 pandemic, refugees and asylum seekers in Panama have faced new and exacerbated risks, especially, with the loss of opportunities to generate an income, daily subsistence has become a challenge.

Movements of people entering through Darien (border with Colombia) increased during 2019 (more than 23,000 people<sup>2</sup> with small numbers requesting international protection Panama, whilst most others transited northward. In 2020, due to the pandemic, the number was significantly lower (6,465 people<sup>2</sup>). As a result of border closures in March 2020, over 2,000 persons remain in the Reception Centers in Darien and Chiriquí. As of end of March, 5,472 persons<sup>3</sup> have entered through the Darien border. These persons remain in the Reception Centers of Lajas Blancas and San Vicente.

UNHCR was part of an interinstitutional mission to Darien to update and renew the documents of Colombian refugees and asylum seekers in remote locations of the province. ONPAR, the National Migration Service, the Civil Registry, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Ministry of Labour and the Ombudsman's Office were part of the mission
